

Everything you need to know about the Fire Goblin (Fi Cabolous)

Introduction:

Have you ever seen a Fire Goblin? They are extremely rare, so if you have ever spotted one, consider yourself very lucky! Fire Goblins are GRuMPY!!! (because they are always SO very hot!) Fire Goblins have glowing red eyes and ears, like the flames of the fires that they live in. They also have bright red fingernails.

Appearance:

The Fire Goblin is a small creature, no taller than a garden gnome! He has 3 fingers; two long fingers like a wizard's and one short stubby finger more like a thumb!

The Fire Goblin wears a scarlet-red coat which is covered in small burn-holes. His hair is tufted and singed and his right eyebrow is completely non-existent!

Habitat

On very rare occasions, Fire Goblins live in the mouths of volcanoes, where the hot lava tans their skins. More often than not though, Fire Goblins dwell in the grates of wood burning stoves and open fires. Snuggled in the blackened embers, Fire Goblins often sleep all day, snoring loudly and occasionally passing wind! (that explains the puffs of smoke at the top of your chimneys!)

Once ensconced in a house's fire, the Fire Goblin will only leave once a year to find a mate.

Commented [V2S1]:

Commented [V2S2]:

Commented [V2S3]:

Commented [V2S4]:

Commented [V2S5]:

Commented [V2S6]:

Commented [V2S7]:

Commented [V2S8]:

Commented [V2S9]: